A lawsuit claimed you paid too much for flexible polyurethane foam or products containing flexible polyurethane foam purchased in Canada because some manufacturers conspired to fix its price.

This notice explains your rights, options, and the deadline to exercise them.

WHAT IS FOAM?

Flexible polyurethane foam is a type of foam found in a number of products, including furniture, mattresses, and carpet underlay. A class action lawsuit alleged that between January 1, 1999 and January 10, 2012 (the “Class Period”) some makers of flexible polyurethane foam in Canada conspired to fix its price—resulting in purchasers paying too much. The class action lawsuit settled for over $38 million. Now it is time to pay money to the people, businesses, institutions, manufacturers and distributors that bought flexible polyurethane foam or products containing flexible polyurethane foam (not including molded or technical foam) made in Canada.

HOW MUCH MONEY CAN I GET?

The amount of money that you will receive depends on the type and amount of the eligible Canadian foam purchases that you made in the Class Period.

For example, if you are an end consumer (meaning that you purchased a foam product such as a sofa or mattress for your own use and not for resale), your claim will be calculated based on the number and type of eligible Canadian foam products that your family household purchased. End consumer claims will receive the greater of $20 or the amount calculated based on your eligible household purchases.

HOW DO I GET MY MONEY?

You can make a claim by visiting the website www.foamforcash.com and completing the online claim form. You must complete a claim form before February 6th, 2018.

DOES IT COST ANYTHING TO REQUEST A PAYMENT?

No, it does not cost anything to request a payment.

HOW DO I KNOW IF I BOUGHT FOAM?

Many products contain flexible polyurethane foam. The eligible products for which you may claim compensation are:

Furniture: upholstered office chairs, arm chairs, two-seat sofas, three-seat sofas and sectional sofas made in Canada containing flexible polyurethane foam.

Bedding: single/twin, double, queen and king size bed mattresses made in Canada containing flexible polyurethane foam.

Carpet Underlay: carpet pad, carpet cushion or carpet underlay made in Canada of scrap flexible polyurethane foam bonded by chemicals into a padding material.

Flexible polyurethane foam (not including molded or technical foam) made in Canada purchased primarily for manufacturing purposes.

WHO CAN REQUEST A PAYMENT?

You may request a payment if you live in Canada now or during the Class Period and you bought flexible polyurethane foam or an eligible product containing flexible polyurethane foam in Canada during the Class Period.

WHAT INFORMATION DO I NEED TO SUBMIT?

The claim form will require information about you and your purchases including reasonable proof that the purchases claimed were manufactured in Canada, for example, a copy of your receipt or a photograph of the tag on the product.

The Claims Administrator will then verify your submitted documentation and claim form.

WHEN WILL I RECEIVE THE MONEY?

We hope to process claim forms by May 9th, 2018.

The Claims Administrator will send out decision notices to everyone who filed a claim form. If you disagree with the Claims Administrator, you may be entitled to a limited right of review.

Once all reviews (if any) are finished, cheques will be sent to everyone whose claim was approved.
